Pas-a-Pas Club.

"Pas-a-Pas—a choicer title
Never graced a worthier cause.
'Tis, in sooth, a brief recital
Of the wisdom of its laws.

"Step by step, we win our laurels
On the field of steady strife,
Step by step, our deeds and morals
Pave the path to future life.

"Speechless, in the gestured motions
Of the languaged hand and face,
Will the poet's penned devotions
Amplify serve the speaker's grace?

"Though all praise from me be meagre,
Though from haste my song be brief,
Still my willing heart is eager
To address the Dumb and Deaf."*

GIBBONS, in writing a history on the decline and fall of the Roman Empire, declared it was a personal affair. Similarly, in presenting to the public the history of the Pas-a-Pas Club, we are obliged to call into account the personal efforts of the members, to omit which would be like rendering Hamlet without Hamlet in it.

It is comparatively an easy task for a few men to meet and decide upon a plan of organization, but to live through the trials and tribulations and obstacles which attend the formation, is altogether a different thing for the club. Deaf mute organizations have sprung up like grasshoppers all over the country, but many were consigned to an early grave. The Pas-a-Pas Club went through years of laborious toils, trials and crises innumerable, that more than once came near placing it on the category of deceased clubs, but to-day it appears as the grandest, the largest and the most liberal club in the whole country. The club, since its reorganization in 1890, has an average of four applications for membership, which is limited to men of good moral character, at each business meeting, and the actual membership at present foots up to seventy. The club was incorporated in 1891, and enjoys the distinction of being the only incorporated club of deaf mutes in the world.

The first step to organization was made at a private picnic at Jackson Park in the summer of 1882, and a few days later seven young men met at the residence of Chester C. Codman, where a permanent organization was formed, and E. D. Kingon elected president. A suggestive name, offered by Harry Reed, of Wisconsin, then visiting the city, was adopted, and the club appropriately named the Pas-a-Pas Club, meaning step by step. Ever since then a new era marked the deaf of Chicago. Social and literary meetings were held, and picnics and balls were regularly given. For a time its growth was remarkable, but it had no settled hall of its own, and as some members objected to paying for not getting what they termed "their money's worth," it was apparent a hard time must be experienced. But through the indefatigable efforts of its founder, C. C. Codman, then president, the club was kept alive, and, later, in 1888, its social and literary object changed into that of a land association. In the fall of 1890, pursuant to a general call, there was a mass meeting of deaf mutes at St. James Church, presided over by O. H. Regensburg, and it was there deemed advisable to effect some sort of an organization that could receive the visitors to the city during the World's Fair in 1893, and the delegates to the great National Convention of Deaf Mutes in that year. There was a minor society in the city, and a compromise was effected with the lesser rival to call the new organization the "Pas-a-Pas Union." The name, however, failed to prove a drawing card, and was subsequently changed to the old name. Immediately following its reorganization, the club leased for a term of three years, as temporary headquarters, the entire fifth floor of the building on the southeast corner of Clark and Randolph streets. Over three hundred dollars were expended in improvements. At the north end of the auditorium is a large stage, well lighted, and the club has given varied dramatic entertainments. In April, 1890, the lady friends of the members presented the club with a magnificent flag, 18x15 feet, and the great banner drapes the entire stage.

Among the most remarkable social successes of the club was the opening ball held at Grand Palace Hotel, February 14, 1891, and the attendance was estimated at 400. It netted a very handsome sum. President Gallaudet, of the National Deaf mute College, opened the lecture program of the club two years ago, and a grand reception was tendered him. Since then, the services of prominent persons have been secured, and the monthly lectures and addresses given are well appreciated by the members and their numerous friends. The principle of the old land syndicate still exists in the Lakeside Land Association. This Association, which, in reality, is an offshoot of the club, has speculated considerable money in lots and shares in real estate.

We have pointed out at random some of the past brilliant achievements of the club. Without making promises for the future, and being aware that "actions speak louder than words," we will leave to that large and appreciative body of deaf-mutes of the world, who will assemble in Chicago during the Congress, to pass upon the merits of the varied entertainments to be given during that time under the auspices of the club, not in the least fearful of what the universal verdict shall be. That they will be to one and all a source of rarest enjoyment, we feel assured; and that they will ever be a pleasant reminder of their visit, we shall hope. Our work will then have been well done and the end of our purposes attained.

May the good work of the club continue; may its path be strewn with roses without thorns. Vive la Pas-a-Pas Club!

Not Things, but Men.

Trip to Pullman, Ill.

8 P. M., Dramatic Entertainment by Fanwood Quad Club (probable.)

Those who will attend the Congress from out of Chicago are urgently requested to call at the rooms of the Pas-a-Pas Club on the day of their arrival and write their names and stopping places in the register to be especially provided for that purpose. The Club is located on the top (5th) floor of 73 South Clark Street, corner of Randolph Street. It will be open all day and evening, and a competent person will be in charge to furnish visitors with all necessary information.

Those who engage quarters in advance at hotels or private houses will please make the fact known to the Secretary without delay. These requests are made of our friends in order that the Committee may be enabled to locate all arrivals and to expedite matters pertaining to the occasion.

We append below a programme of the Congress as prepared by the Committee appointed for that purpose. Suggestion is here made that those who have been detailed to discuss special papers correspond with the writers of them and get an outline copy of the same about one month in advance, so that they may be able to perform their assigned tasks intelligently. The rules of the Congress Auxiliary require that all papers and discussions be written beforehand.

GENERAL INFORMATION.

Hall 1 is World's Congress Headquarters, occupied by President Charles C. Bonney and Secretary Clarence E. Young.

Hall 2 is a branch of the Secretary's office, embracing Bureau of Information, Press Bureau, Mailing Office, Telegraph and Telephone Office, Bureau of Registry, Members' Tickets, Badges and Medals. All persons attending the World's Congress of Representative Deaf are requested to register at a convenient time during the week. Blank applications for membership will be supplied in the Registration Room. These applications should be filled out and presented to the register clerk, who will issue membership tickets.

OFFICIAL SOUVENIR MEDAL.

The World's Congress Auxiliary has adopted an official membership medal for the World's Congress of 1893, to be made in bronze, silver and gold. This medal is beautifully designed, having a place for owner's inscription, and will be sold as a souvenir in the Registration Room.

For the purpose of identifying all those in attendance as members of the Congress of the Deaf, appropriate badges will be arranged for the several Congresses, and may be procured for a small charge in the Registration Room.

Cloak Room, Restaurant and Lavatories are in the basement.

OFFICIAL PUBLICATION OF PROCEEDINGS.

The Auxiliary will make a full report of the proceedings of the several Congresses, which will be properly edited and published in book form. At this time it is impossible to estimate accurately the number of volumes the proceedings of a given Department will make, or the cost of same per volume. It may be stated in this connection, however, that these valuable publications will be furnished at the lowest practicable price; and all persons who desire to obtain the report of the Congresses in any or all of the following Departments should follow instructions contained in applications for membership, or address a special communication to the undersigned Secretary, who will register their names, and at the earliest possible date furnish full information as to prices, date of delivery and other particulars.

GENERAL ASSIGNMENT TO THE MONTHS OF THE EXPOSITION SEASON OF THE WORLD'S CONGRESSES OF 1893, BY DEPARTMENTS.

HOTELS.

While the Auxiliary will not assume any responsibility of providing hotel facilities for those who will attend the World's Congresses, the Secretary will refer communications addressed to him on this subject to none but responsible and desirable houses with whom arrangements may be made. The Auxiliary, however, takes pleasure in stating that there has been placed at its disposal, with special rates, accommodations for five hundred persons per day during the Exposition season. These accommodations are first-class for comfort, convenience and location. All persons desiring to avail themselves of this opportunity should, without delay, address a special communication to the Secretary, or make arrangements at telephone office upon arrival.

CLARENCE E. YOUNG,

WORLD'S CONGRESS HEADQUARTERS,
CHICAGO, ILL.

Secretary.

SPECIFIC INFORMATION ABOUT THE W. C. R. D.

The Bureau of Information will be open from 8 A. M. to 1 P. M., and will be in charge of P. J. Hasenstab, and there will be in attendance persons who can give all possible information in regard to the official arrangements of the Congress, as well as to give local directions.

The Press Bureau will be under the charge of Albert Berg, who will give to all press correspondents and workers the information they may desire concerning speakers and addresses.

When a reporter or press correspondent desires an interview with a Representative of the Congress, Albert Berg will send a formal request for the presence of that person to the hall in which he thinks the person likely to be found. All presiding officers are desired to announce to the audiences these requests when they are signed by Albert Berg.

The Mailing Office will be open all day, and all speakers and persons connected in any way officially with any meeting held in the World's Congress, are requested to ask for mail, at least once a day, as official information will be sent to them through this Mailing Office, and also any social invitations, etc., in addition to all mail which may come for them addressed to the Art Palace. Please observe this request.

James E. Gallaher, Secretary of the Committee on Organization, will be at this office daily from 12:20 to 1:15.

Geo. T. Dougherty, Chairman of the Committee of Organization of the Congress, will have his office in the Registration Room (Hall II), next to the Bureau of Information. Office hours, 9 to 10 A. M.

COST TO SEE THE EXPOSITION.

What One Will Spend in Seeing the Various Side Shows and Taking Advantage of Each Opportunity to see a Sight—Accommodations Which are Good and Cheap Will be Plenty—Estimates of Expense of a Visit to Chicago by the Out-of-Town Patron of Various Tastes.

The individual that undertakes to see the Exposition in one day must remember that the enclosed portion of the Exposition covers 633 acres of ground and contains fifty-two Exposition and State Buildings, besides the buildings of several foreign nations, the stock exhibit and numerous other drawing attractions. However, on the supposition that he can make the rounds, including a tour down Midway Plaisance, enter all the places charging admission fees, ride on the electric boats, elevated, sliding and ice railroads, allowing fifty cents for lunch and twenty-five cents fare to and from the park, $7.05 will pay the bill.

This estimate is based on the understanding that there will be twenty-one side shows charging twenty-five cents admission. Here is an itemized account:

Admission to Exposition grounds.....	$ 50
Admission to side shows.....	5 25
Ride on electric boat.....	25
Ride on elevated railroad.....	10
Ride on sliding railway.....	10
Ride on ice railroad.....	10
Lunch.....	50
Round-trip fare.....	25
Total.....	$7 05

For five days the sum would be:

Admission to grounds.....	$2 50
Side shows.....	5 25
Two rides on elevated railroad.....	20
Two rides on electric boat.....	50
Two rides on sliding railway.....	20
Lunches.....	2 50
Round-trip fares, railroad or lake boats.....	1 25
Total.....	$12 40

Taking it for granted that one proposes to get through as cheaply as possible and at the same time see everything, he will be satisfied with one visit to the extra attractions and one whirl on the pleasure schemes. By thus restricting himself the cost for ten days may be kept within the following estimate:

Admissions to grounds.....	$5 00
Side shows.....	5 25
Lunches.....	5 00
Round-trip fares.....	2 50
Ride on electric boat.....	25
Ride on elevated railroad.....	10
Ride on sliding railroad.....	10
Ride on ice railroad.....	10
Total.....	$18 30

The side shows here referred to come under the head of concessions granted by the Exposition management. They include, among other things, the Esquimaux, German, Irish, Dahomey, Austrian, East Indian, American Indian, Chinese, Lapland, and Turkish villages; the Hagenbeck animal show, circular railroad tower, the Ferris wheel, Algeria and Tunis, model St. Peter, science of animal locomotion, panorama of volcano Kilauea, and the Moorish palace.

At least $2.50 a day must be added to the above estimates for living expenses in Chicago.

WORTHY OF ATTENTION.

Just at this time criticisms are being made upon matters connected with the World's Congress of the Deaf. One criticism is that the program of this august body has not provided for free and unlimited discussion of the papers to be read. The committee having the matter in charge are not to be blamed for this, as they have no voice in the matter. A writer in The Chicago Advance has stated the specific work and object of these World's Congresses so well that we reprint his words: "The special work of the World's Congresses is declared to be 'to review the achievements which have already been made in the various departments of enlightened life, and sum up in each Congress the progress of the world in the department involved, to the date of the Congress; to make a clear statement of the living questions of the day which still demand attention, and to receive from eminent representatives of all interests, classes and people, suggestions of the practical means by which further progress can be made and the prosperity and peace of the world advanced. The object of the Congress is not to attempt the impossibility of settling anything by debate during the Exposition season, but to elicit from the leaders of progress in all countries, convened in fraternal assembly, the wisest and best thought of the age on the living questions of our time, and the means by which further progress can be made. Controversy is excluded. Advocates will present their own views, not attack the views of others. The proceedings will not be submitted to vote of the persons who may happen to be present at a given session, but will be published for submission to the deliberate judgment of the enlightened world. Hence, no confusion or other difficulty can arise from bringing all together in the same Congress.' "

Masonic Temple, where the General Banquet will be held, stands to-day the highest office building in the world—having twenty-one stories. From the banquet hall the city of Chicago and the World's Fair lie at your very feet, and the State of Michigan, sixty miles across the lake, is clearly outlined. This building cost $4,500,000. Its fifty-three miles of electric light wires bear 125,000 electric lights. Any of the 16 elevators will take you to the banquet hall. These elevators have a carrying capacity of 100,000 passengers per day, surpassing the great Eiffel tower in this respect.

A VERSATILE BEGGAR.

He was standing, bowed and broken, in the wailing wind and rain,
White his hair, his face was withered, furrowed, too, by years and pain,
With his stricken eyes turned upward to the skies they could not see.
"He," I muttered, "is a symbol of all human misery.
There is naught for him but darkness; all his world's a world behind."
On his bosom was the legend—

: PLEASE TO HELP ME!
: I AM BLIND.

Later in the week I saw him in another distant town,
He was looking with mute pathos from his gentle eyes of brown,
He could see as well as I could, but affliction's iron hand
Had tied up his vocal organs with a worse than iron band;
And I placed a silver quarter in his pallid hand and numb,
Having read the sign he carried—

: HELP ME!
: I AM DEAF AND DUMB.

When again I saw the beggar, weary days and weeks had flown,
He was sitting crushed and lonely, on a place of curbing stone;
He could see and hear and gabble, and I said, "I have been sold,"
And I grabbed that bold impostor with a William Muldoon hold,
And I mauled him quite thoroughly till the natives were surprised.
Truthful words composed the placard—

: HELP!
: I HAVE BEEN PARALYZED!

—Walt Mason in Fremont (Neb.) Tribune.

TALENTED BIRD.

Wrathful Customer—See here, this parrot you sold me has fits.

Bird Seller—Fits? Nothing of the kind. He used to belong to a deaf and dumb man. He learned to talk with his claws, see?
